1 The Environment and Poverties: A Reflection on “Our Common Home”

Don Koza, St. John the Evangelist (Frederick)

Commemorating five years since the issuance of Pope Francis’s encyclical on the environment, “Our Common Home”, this workshop will explore the various obstacles and opportunities to remaking the environment. Rooted in Catholic Social Teaching, the workshop offers several ways for parishes and individuals to engage (before it’s too late)!

2 The National Catholic/Labor Partnership Project

Dr. Clayton Sinyai, U.S. Catholic Labor Network; Terry Cavanagh, SEIU MD-DC; Chuck Hendricks, Unite Here; Fr. Ty Hullinger, Interfaith Worker Justice MD

As part of the newly launched Catholic/Labor Partnership Project, dioceses around the U.S. are partnering with labor to support low-wage workers who are seeking justice for themselves, their communities, and the people they serve. How can we in the Baltimore Archdiocese join this national initiative?

3 Building Inclusive Communities in the Face of Fair Housing Challenges

Dan Pontious, Baltimore Metropolitan Council; Mary Bradford, Beyond the Boundaries

The Baltimore Region’s residential segregation patterns and disparities were rooted in racial segregation zoning ordinances and “redlining” maps that set the template for building suburbs for white people only. Learn more about the disparities that still exist in the Baltimore area and discuss how we can engage parishes to build the political and moral will to advocate for more inclusive communities.

4 A Time for Healing: Bridging the Racial Divides

Sr. Gwynette Proctor, SND, Archdiocese of Baltimore Office of Black Catholic Ministries

In an atmosphere of growing racial tensions, this workshop will discuss the ways our “unconscious bias” feeds our fear and transformative learning principles which can lead to new understandings. Participants will engage in reflection on their own experiences and learned beliefs that keep us separated.

5 Prophetic Advocates: Protecting Vulnerable Children Around the World

Mary Beth Iduh, Catholic Relief Services

The foundation for a thriving life is rooted in a full and flourishing childhood. CRS equips advocates with the tools to support children overseas in nutritious, healthy lifestyles from conception through age eight—and beyond. Join us for a hands-on workshop and learn techniques and tactics for advocating on behalf of vulnerable children around the world and advancing policies that support life and justice for all.

6 Noticias y Actualizaciones de Inmigración (Spanish only)

Mikhael Borgonos y Giuliana Valencia-Banks, Esperanza Center

Durante esta sesión, el Abogado Gerente del Centro Esperanza de Esperanza Center Mikhael Borgonos y la Coordinadora de Alcance Giuliana Valencia-Banks darán actualizaciones sobre lo que está sucediendo con DACA, TPS y otras formas de alivio de inmigración. ¡Aprenda a distinguir los hechos de la ficción!*

7 Ministry, Justice, and Mercy for Our Incarcerated Brothers and Sisters | Ministerio, Justicia y Misericordia para Nuestros Hermanos y Hermanas Encarcelados

(English – AM and PM/Interpretado al Español de manera simultánea por la tarde)

Dcn. Paul Gifford and Mary Pat Donelan, Prison Ministers; John Barba, former recipient of prison ministry

The U.S. has the largest prison population in the world and the highest per capita incarceration rate. Inmates are cut off from family, work, friends, church community, and so much of society. In this workshop, learn about some of the justice issues particularly affecting those with life sentences, hear about the transformative work of prison ministry, and learn how we as Catholics can get involved in prison reform.

Estados Unidos tiene la población carcelaria más grande del mundo y la mayor tasa de encarcelamientos per cápita. Los reclusos son apartados de sus familias, trabajos, comunidades religiosas, y de casi toda la sociedad. Aprenderá sobre algunas de las injusticias que afectan particularmente a aquellos con cadena perpetua, se informará sobre el trabajo de transformación que realiza el Ministerio de Prisión, y aprenderá sobre cómo nosotros, como católicos, podemos involucrarnos en la reforma penitenciaria.

8 Archdiocese of Baltimore’s Catholic Campaign for Human Development: Social Justice in Action

Gisele Ferretto, Geraldine Sicola, and Marge Trenkle, Catholic Campaign for Human Development, Archdiocese of Baltimore Committee

While the gospel speaks of our responsibility to promote social justice, it can be hard to know what our role is in addressing the social sin rooted in our social and economic structures and institutions. CCHD is the church’s response to Jesus’s call to social justice. This workshop will highlight examples of successful projects right here in our diocese and identify ways we can all promote and participate in social justice activities.

9 Why Our Parishes Need LGBTQ+ Ministries: Creating a Safe Place for Conversations and Shared Stories

Members of parishes with LGBTQ+ ministries

Catholics want our church communities to be places of welcome and companionship for everyone, especially for people who have felt excluded from the Church. Many LGBTQ+ Catholics, however, struggle to understand their complete identity in a world that tells them they can’t be LGBTQ+ and Catholic. Our panel of LGBTQ+ Catholics and allies will share stories about the importance of having LGBTQ+ ministries in our parishes and their hopes and expectations for the Church they serve and love.

10 Journeying Together on the Path to Change: Working Cooperatively with Young People on Social Justice

Rudy Dehaney, Northeast Catholic Community

In his exhortation to young people, “Christus Vivit”, Pope Francis calls us to move towards a more participatory and co-responsible Church of members both young and old. In terms of our social justice efforts, what does this look like? This is an interactive workshop that will begin the dialogue on how to address the social concerns of our realities together.

11 Trauma Informed Care

Brynez MB Roane, PhD, LCSW-C, St. Vincent de Paul of Baltimore

12 Behavioral Health Disparities in Addiction Treatment

Karen Haughey, LCSW-C, Catholic Charities Behavioral Health Services

Drug and alcohol addiction is considered an “equal opportunity destroyer.” While addiction does not care about race, religion, socioeconomic status, gender or age, we know that minorities and low income individuals have less access to treatment and face more barriers to recovery. This workshop will take a look at racial bias and minority disparities including the shift from a criminal justice approach to a public health crisis.
